Africa Energy Futures: Zimbabwe

19 November 2021

Investment opportunities will arise in two main areas in Zimbabwe in the next decade: renewable energy and petroleum. The government has provided incentives to the energy sector and awarded several IPP licenses to different companies, but very few of these projects have been executed. The delay in implementing these projects has been caused by a lack of funding in light of perceived currency risks.

A timely intervention: A drafter's perspective on the Protocol on Virtual Hearings in Africa

4 November 2020

Concerned about the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic on Africa's dispute resolution landscape, the Association of Young Arbitrators (AYA), bringing together arbitration practitioners in Africa under 40 years of age, launched its Protocol on Virtual Hearings in Africa (the Protocol) in April 2020. AYA was formed in 2015 with the mission to provide a platform for the young members of the African arbitration community to meet, exchange ideas and learn from peers and more experienced arbitrators and arbitration practitioners.

Two DLA Piper Africa lawyers have been recognised by the Association of Young Arbitrators (AYA) in their annual "Africa's 50 Most Promising Young Arbitration Practitioners" Award 2020.

Tax incentives to attract investor involvement in PPP's in Zimbabwe

9 September 2018

Governments, the world over, often provide incentives to attract private sector involvement in public-private partnership (PPP) projects. Zimbabwe is no different.
